
Public hearing Friday on Crab Orchard landfill

Associated Press

Originally published 04:01 a.m., January 27, 2012

Updated 12:13 p.m., January 27, 2012

CRAB ORCHARD, Tenn. (AP) — The town of Crab Orchard in Cumberland County, Tenn., will have a public hearing Friday evening to discuss a proposed private landfill.

The landfill would be at a limestone quarry. A request seeking authority for the landfill was denied by the city in 2009.

The group Statewide Organizing for Community Empowerment has opposed a landfill in the town for several years, citing safety and environmental reasons.

© 2012 Scripps Newspaper Group — Online